Pandoc, amazing Pandoc...

If you need to convert files from one markup format into another, pandoc is your swiss-army knife.

Pandoc is a universal document converter available for all major operating systems. Pandoc can convert Markdown to LaTeX, LaTeX to PDF, and PDF to DOCX.

To use Pandoc you could do `pandoc file.md -o file.pdf`. This makes `file.md` a PDF, to view this PDF you could use Zathura. To open `file.pdf` in Zathura run: `zathura file.pdf`. Most web browsers can also serve as a PDF viewer.

For example, this markdown blog was turned into this PDF. And it's all OSS, with no price tag.

This site has Atom/RSS feeds and PDFs, to get them go to `/feed/feed.atom`, `/feed/feed.rss` or `/pdf/$blogSlug.pdf` (Please note old post's PDFs may not be created and may be lower quality.)
